

ABSTRACT

A golf ball having a surface on which are formed 5 numerous dimples and numerous edges which define the dimples is characterized in that the edges are composed of a plurality of edge elements, and the dimples include dimples which are defined by a plurality of edge elements and are non-circular as viewed from above. Dimple effects on the 10 golf ball enhance the aerodynamic performance, enabling the ball to achieve an increased carry.